Fujita Piano Trio

Arisa Fujita (violin); Megumi Fujita (piano); Honoka Fujita (cello)

South Holland Concerts opens its season with a second visit from this world-renowned piano trio. The three sisters, who have played chamber music together since childhood, made a huge impression here two years ago, and we immediately booked them to come again. They will play trios by Mozart and Brahms, as well as Beethoven's Archduke Trio.

Piatti String Quartet

Nathaniel Anderson-Frank and Michael Trainor (violins); David Wigram (viola); Jessie Ann Richardson (cello)

Another return visit - this time by a young award-winning string quartet which has made critically acclaimed recordings and delighted audiences all over the world with quality performances. These artists will play a very attractive programme of Beethoven's Quartet op 18 no 3, Ravel's popular String Quartet, and Dvořák's Quartet op 106.

Saturday 31 January 2015 at 7.30pm

Rosanna Ter-Berg (flute) and Leo Nicholson (piano)

Since graduating from Trinity Laban in 2011, where Leo gained the highest ever marks for his keyboard playing, Rosanna and Leo have both pursued successful careers as soloists and chamber musicians, winning numerous awards. Their varied programme will include duo-pieces by Debussy.

Alwyn, Poulenc and Ibert, and a piano work by Liszt. The concert is given under the Countess of Munster Recital Scheme.

Saturday 7 March 2015 at 7.30pm

Jessie Ann Richardson (cello) and Simon Callaghan (piano)

Jessie is enjoying two successful careers - as cellist with the Piatti Quartet, who are playing for us in November, and also as a soloist. She returns to give a cello recital with well-known pianist Simon Callaghan, and they will perform sonatas by Beethoven and Rachmaninov, and Bruch's haunting Kol Nidrei. This concert is also given under the Countess of Munster Recital Scheme.
